

Hope you enjoy these photos of the progress and then the final “moved in” version with all my art and craft supplies in ONE PLACE—hooray! Now the fun begins!

Frank and Michael hard at work!

My brother, Denny, measuring twice, cutting once! How did I manage to get all these photos with no faces?!

All wrapped in paper ready for siding and roof and trim.

The entire cottage was built in 8 days! My brother and his boys gave up 8 days of their Christmas vacation to do this for me--how will I ever thank them?

Debby and Gary doing the messy job--taping and mudding the drywall!

Here is Pat Riley helping me paint, put down flooring and molding. Bet you are surprised we didn't end up with polka dot walls, huh?

Richard helped move all the heavy boxes out of the store, then over to the cottage, finished the shelves, helped clean up the construction mess AND planted flowers!

This wonderful cupboard was purchased from Patty Codenko at the CALM show--love it!

You know how I love cigar boxes filled with goodies!

Here's my little desk--perfect size! I can make a mess and then just close the door...love it!

Found these lovely pipes at Kate Hernandez's booth at the CALM show.

A girl needs lots of stuff to create with...never know what mood I will be in on any given day!

Tags--just waiting to be embellished!

Another shelf in the old drug store cabinet from the store. Now it is not meant for display, but to hold supplies where I can get to them easily.

Remember this from the shop?

So, that's the tour of my little cottage!
Now I'd better get busy and create something! If anything turns out fit to share,
I will post photos in future blogs!

I seem to have this string thing...

The finished cottage!

Tired, but happy girl! Now the fun begins!
